

Seafood Retailers

Fishmongers and Supermarkets

We have a range of information and training courses that will help both independent fishmongers and those employed to manage supermarket seafood counters.

Through our various Partners we have very strong links with the seafood retail industry at both a local and national level. As such the Seafood Training Academy is well placed to meet both large and small training needs using 'off the shelf' training programmes or by developing bespoke training courses.

Why not challenge us with your training needs today?

Recognised programmes include:

- Food safety from level 1 to 3;
 - o Both taught and open learning;
 - o English and other languages;
- H&S both taught and open learning;
- Seafood Quality Assessment from introductory to advanced;

Individual Partner Programmes such as:

- CGLI Seafood Retailing qualification;
- Introduction to Fishmongering;
- Knife skills and fish filleting training;
- Get into Fishmongering seminars;
- Fish recognition and seafood identification;
- Product Knowledge for seafood sales

Training Facilities for the delivery of training are available in London, the Northwest, NE Lincs and in the Northeast of England.

Ranging from the world famous Billingsgate Fish Market, to the newly built Humber Seafood Institute and including Training Centres in the North East and North West of England, the Seafood Training Academy has excellent seafood training facilities to place at your disposal.

In-shop and In-store training is also available should you wish, from the national network of approved trainers able to deliver Seafish Approved and Academy Recognised training programmes.

If a more flexible training or learning experience is required then we can provide open learning programmes in both food safety and health & safety.

On the SeafoodAcademy.org website we have streaming video, free training packages and information documents for you to download. Why not check out the Seafood Retailers Library Guide for a comprehensive guide to what's available?
